

Jonathan Eisen @phylogenomics

Sep 22 19 · 9 tweets

Call me unimpressed w/ @Harvard University here: "Harvard Office of the General Counsel to Review Epstein Donations" thecrimson.com/article/2019/9... 1/n

First, @Harvard University took and kept spending millions of $$ from Jeffrey Epstein and snuggled up close to him and let him get embedded in multiple programs including that of @Martin A. Nowak 2/n

And many others at @Harvard University boosted Jeffrey Epstein's reputation and palled around with him in various ways 3/n

And when finally confronted with this when the horrifying details of Jeffrey Epstein were out in the open what did @Harvard University say "The university has no plans to return the $6.5 million to Epstein" usatoday.com/story/news/nat...

And then, as others at least started some sort of apologizing (much of it lame I would note) what did @Harvard University say? -- nothing - crickets - for months thecrimson.com/article/2019/9...

And then, finally, a few weeks ago @Harvard University says something and it is almost utterly useless and disingenuous x.com/phylogenomics/...

So now we find out that @Harvard University's general counsel will be investigating the $$ trail - thecrimson.com/article/2019/9... - that means it is time for more covering up

After all - what is the job of @Harvard University Office of the General Counsel? To protect the university and their staff & faculty --- so this is not the group we need now - we need an independent investigation

About

Harvard University's Office of the General Counsel is responsible for all the legal work arising from the activities of Harvard's Faculties and departments. Our mission is to render timely and thoughtful advice on the broad range of legal issues that the University, its faculty, and administrators confront on behalf of the University.

Attorney-Client Privilege

A Guide for Harvard

The attorney-client privilege preserves the confidentiality of communications between lawyers and their clients. The privilege protects individuals and institutions. Thus, communications that Harvard faculty and staff have with Harvard attorneys, in confidence, for the purpose of seeking legal advice concerning Harvard legal matters, are protected by the attorney-client privilege from disclosure to opposing parties. Such communications are privileged whether they are oral, written or electronic.

As a @Harvard University alum I am calling on @Harvard University to bring in an independent group to investigate the history of connections to child rapist Jeffrey Epstein
cc: @Harvard Alumni Association @The Harvard Crimson @Harvard Magazine

Source: <https://x.com/phylogenomics/status/1175795079434235904>

Thread: <https://twitter-thread.com/t/1175795079434235904>